

CROWD JAMS DOYLESTOWN ARMORY TO HEAR REPUBLICAN ORATORS LASH NEW DEAL AND WARN OF ITS PERIL; WOMAN SPEAKER SAYS IT IS A CRUSADE BY AMERICANS FOR AMERICA

Senator G. Mason Owlett, Mrs. John R. Hemphill, Joseph N. Pew and Theodore R. Gardner Tell of Dangers Ahead if Democrats Are Continued in Power—Crowd Enthusiastically Applauds as Speakers Castigate New Deal and Show Its Communistic Hook-Up.

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 28—Lashing the New Deal and the Roosevelt Administration from all sides, speakers at a huge Republican mass meeting held in the armory Saturday afternoon, spurred the Republican committeemen and committeewomen of Bucks County to a new vigor and at the same time aroused the electorate to a sense of its responsibility in protecting its interests and in turn the interest of America.

Standing with shoulders erect and head held high; his arms outstretched, Senator G. Mason Owlett in phrases castigating the present administration, warned: "America Is In Peril."

Continuing the Senator stated:
"All who study the legislation prepared by the band of college professors and near Communists coaching President Roosevelt, and forced through a subservient Congress by him, realize the truth of those four words. This legislation makes a complete picture for us of the kind of America the New Deal would provide for its citizens."

Expounding Republican theories from a woman's viewpoint and urging members of her sex into action to help defeat Roosevelt and the New Deal, Mrs. George R. Hemphill, President Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, made a highly effective speech.

"This is a crusade by Americans for America," stated Mrs. Hemphill, and that her ringing phrase caught the audience was attested to by the vigorous applause which her statement brought forth.

"Women are aroused that the head of a major political party should play politics with human misery," was the way the speaker attacked the method being employed by the Administration in making of relief a political football.

Theodore R. Gardner, Republican candidate for Congress from the Bucks-Lehigh District, made vigorous attack upon the Reciprocal Trade Agreements made by the Democratic Administration and it was the contention of the speaker that these agreements are closing American factories, increasing the list of those on relief and causing misery and suffering in the United States.

"The present agreements are one of the main reasons why the number of unemployed Americans still number more than 10,000,000 persons. These agreements allow cheap foreign made products to come into this country and under-sell American products with the resultant harmful effects on American labor."

Joseph N. Pew, Montgomery County, introduced as one of the delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention, drove home a number of salient points as he spoke to the audience.

"Roosevelt's aims lead only to one thing—to perpetuate himself in some form of dictatorship," said the speaker.

The armory was packed, every available seat being occupied and many standing, throughout the entire afternoon. The room was attractively decorated with flags and bunting. Figures of the candidates, both national, state and district, were displayed in profusion. A large stage was erected at one end of the room from which the speakers addressed the audience.

After being greeted by one of the finest ovations of the afternoon, Theodore R. Gardner, Republican candidate for Congress, let loose with a volley of attacks on the methods of the New Deal and the resulting waste that indicated that Mr. Gardner is well aware of the flagrant abuses being forced upon American citizens by the present Administration.

Putting aside all ideal gestures and getting down to the facts Mr. Gardner picked apart with real courage and knowledge many of the ill-timed and ill-advised methods of procedure of the New Deal.

Mr. Gardner was especially strong in his denunciation of the present Reciprocal Trade Agreements made by the present Administration with foreign countries. "The present agreements," this forceful speaker pointed out, "are one of the main reasons why the number of unemployed Americans still number more than 10,000,000 persons. These agreements allow cheap foreign made products to come into this country and under-sell American products with the resultant harmful effects on American labor."

Quoting numerous illustrations of this practice, Mr. Gardner pointed out that he got his information from the Foreign Bureau of Commerce, published in Washington. Among the articles being imported on increasingly larger scales each month were included pig iron. If the thousands of tons of imported pig iron had been produced in this country during the past year, it would have provided work for 1,050 men for one year with total wages of $1,617,000.

Imported silk was also given as an illustration of the cheap foreign products that are flooding this country. The speaker revealed that Japanese hosiery workers work a 10-hour day for a wage of 20 cents. "And this imported Japanese silk is made into American flags," Mr. Gardner said.

Cement is another product that is being imported in vast quantities into this country to the detriment of American labor. Mr. Gardner stated that the cost of producing cement in Belgium is about one-quarter of what it costs in this country, and because of the low tariffs on this material this foreign made product is finding its way into the United States with the inevitable result that American cement workers are idle.

Owlett's New Deal Jabs

I do not know whether Vincent Astor, on whose yacht President Roosevelt loved to cruise until this election year, has become an "economic royalist," he gave $35,000 in 1932—he was then a benefactor.

Our Little New Deal Governor Earle is much concerned about the DuPont contribution to the Republicans this year. He says, you know, that if Landon is elected we will have war in two years. In spite of the fact that he tried to create riots and civil warfare less than two months ago in Pennsylvania, he is now trying to raise a scare of war because of the DuPont contributions to the Republican Party. No such fear was expressed in 1932 when this same family made such tremendous contributions to President Roosevelt's campaign.

There is a case in Perry County of a WPA project which has just been brought to my attention. This is a project for the rewriting, revising, cataloging and indexing of all the Borough ordinances of Marysville Borough. The WPA furnishes the personnel and the Borough supplies the office. The head of the project is John E. Rousch of Marysville. There was furnished to him an assistant for this work of cataloging and indexing—a junior clerk. Rousch writes, however, that he has to do everything, as this junior clerk cannot typewrite, write English or spell.

One of Perry County's wealthiest men, a bank director and owner of a farm valued at $7,000, as well as a cattle ranch, with money in the bank, has a WPA job as foreman, said to be at $200 per month. He turns out to be a leading New Deal political leader in his locality.

In Cumberland County an elderly director of a bank, who has been retired for over ten years, is receiving $150 per month as a WPA foreman. I presume it is only incidental that this man is an active New Deal leader in his locality.

Thomas J. Deviney Dies At Buckley Street Home

A resident of 318 Buckley street, Thomas J. Deviney, died at his home, Saturday evening, at the age of 45 years. He was the son of the late Thomas and Cecilia Deviney.

Three sisters and one brother survive the Bristolian, namely: Mrs. William Gallagher, the Misses Alice and Lucy Deviney, and Charles Deviney, all of Bristol.

The funeral service on Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. will be held from the home of his sister, Mrs. William Gallagher, 142 Buckley street, with high mass in St. Mark's Church at 10 o'clock. Burial in St. Mark's Cemetery will be in charge of the W. I. Murphy Estate.

Elizabeth Hussey Claimed By Death in Ardmore

Miss Elizabeth Hussey, a former resident of this borough, died in Ardmore, Saturday. She was the daughter of the late Patrick and Ellen Hussey. A graduate of Bristol High School, Trenton (N. J.) Normal School, and Columbia University, Miss Hussey had been engaged for several years as a teacher in the Bayonne, N. J. High School. The deceased, an aunt of Dr. George Hussey, is survived by two sisters and four brothers.

The funeral, tomorrow at nine a. m., will be conducted from the residence of her nephew, Dr. Mark Morgan, 201 E. Montgomery avenue, Ardmore, with solemn mass in St. Colman's Church, Ardmore, at 10:30 o'clock. Interment is to be made in St. Mark's Cemetery, here. Friends may call Monday evening.

CLUB MEETS

The Phi Delta Club met Saturday evening at the home of the Misses Violet Ruth and Irene Ranck, 226 Monroe street. Knitting was followed by refreshments.

BABIES CHRISTENED

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall, 225 Washington street, was christened Betty Jane in Bristol Presbyterian Church, yesterday. The young son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, Madison street, was also christened in the Presbyterian Church. The baby has been named John Russell.

South Langhorne Wedding Interests Local Folks

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Sept. 28—Miss Jeanette M. Vacciano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Vacciano, South Langhorne, and Arthur Angelaccio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Angelaccio, 1232 Radcliffe street, Bristol, were married on Saturday at one p. m., in Our Lady of Grace Church, by the Rev. Father Kelly.

The bride was attended by Miss Betty Barbetta, maid of honor; Miss Josephine Ruaback, Croydon, Miss Annabelle Manze, Bristol, and Miss Frances Sodano, as bridesmaids. Serving as best man was Frank Deon, Bristol. The ushers were Anthony Angelaccio, brother of the groom, and Joseph Vacciano, South Langhorne, brother of the bride.

The vocalist was Miss Mary Sodano; and organist was Miss Rita Keating. The bride wore a white brocaded velvet gown, and tulle veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor wore a taffeta model of ashes of roses tone, gold accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bridesmaids were attired in aquamarine taffeta dresses, with gold accessories and carried yellow roses.

A reception for the immediate families and a few friends followed the ceremony at the home of the bride. The couple left Saturday evening for New York City. They will reside at 241 Madison street.

PERTINENT QUESTION IS TO BE DISCUSSED

At Workers' Conference in Eddington Presbyterian Church, Tuesday

OTHER BENSALEM ITEMS

BENSALEM TOWNSHIP, Sept. 28—The question, "What do we expect to do, in a social and religious way, during the coming year?" will find its answer at a worker's conference to be held at the Eddington Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening, at eight o'clock.

The conference, thought to be the first of its kind at this institution, has been employed by churches and organizations in other localities with a high degree of success.

Delegates from the five main departments of the Church will be present. These include: the Missionary Society, the Amigos club, the Epics club, the Ladies Aid Society, and the Sunday School unit.

Each organization will present a complete program of its activities, including dates speakers, and other arrangements for the coming year. The Missionary Society has already completed its roster which will be presented by Miss Isabella Jones, Croydon, when the group assemblies on Tuesday evening. Officers of each of the organizations will be present.

When the activities planned by these groups have all been presented, and after any existing conflicts have been eliminated, the plans will be incorporated into a plan book for the year. Copies will be printed and distributed to each member of the Church and the Sunday School.

As outlined by the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis, who has called the meeting, the conference presentation of plans will enable a definite plan to be followed for the entire year. "There will be a definite objective and definite goal then," Rev. Sargis said.

Fred Blocker, Eddington, who was struck by a locomotive in Newark, N. J., is reported as rapidly recovering from his injuries. Mr. Blocker was at his employment when the train is said to have struck him, causing several

IT'S YOUR MONEY

The Highway Department, Operating Full Tilt Under the Little
New Deal, Continues to Spend Millions of Dollars—But Not On Road Construction and Maintenance

(This is another of a series of articles on the expenditures and tax collections of the Little New Deal.)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 28—In the Highway Department, under Secretary Warren Van Dyke, the Earle-Guffey machine is giving a typical demonstration of the New Deal's ability to spend money without getting results.

At the end of Van Dyke's first full fiscal year, the principal mileage of the department has been made in alibis, explanations, and promises. Road construction and maintenance has proceeded slowly and erratically, and expenditures for these purposes have been sharply curtailed. But, true to the New Deal pattern, expenditures for salaried, inefficient personnel have been maintained just as though the department were building or improving roads at a normal pace.

At the outset, it should be noted that the Highway secretaryship was the first to be filled by Governor Earle and those who dictated his selections. The job presented an easy solution for the New Deal. They needed a man to supervise one of the biggest departments on the Hill, and the one department whose huge budget was comparatively free from legislative restrictions. In Van Dyke, they had one of the "charter" New Dealers of Pennsylvania, the former Democratic State Chairman who rode the crest of the wave which swept old line Democracy from the Commonwealth. So Van Dyke got the job, while lesser patronage experts were assigned to departments like Revenue, Labor and Industry and Forests and Waters.

Students of what is now the ancient history of the Little New Deal will recall also the fanfare of publicity with which Van Dyke launched an "Earle economy" campaign in the Department of Highways. While Eddie Jones was following the same policy in Labor and Industry, Van Dyke hung up his hat in Highways and began firing road building experts right and left. On the basis of these early wholesale dismissals, Van Dyke broadcast his favour fable of millions of dollars of savings.

By the time Secretary Van Dyke had completed his first clean-up, he realized that his inexperienced, political replacements were incapable of proceeding at once with the huge and important task of road building. It was then that he began complaining loud and long that loans from the Motor Fund were retarding the work of his department. There was one notable deviation from this continual alibi. During the early weeks of the 1936 special session of the Legislature, when Governor Earle and Democratic leaders were recommending further loans from the Motor Fund, Secretary Van Dyke delivered an address before a prominent motor club, emphatically reassuring the assembled motorists that the Highway Department had ample funds and would not be hamstrung by the transfers Governor Earle was proposing and getting.

The official records of expenditures from the Motor License Fund, however, give a far different picture of the New Deal Highway Department than that which the graduated Democratic State Chairman has been trying to paint.

As compared with total net expenditures of $76,208,874 during the fiscal year ending May 31, 1935, the total expenditures under Secretary Van Dyke amounted to $54,943,369 for the fiscal year ending May 31, this year. On the closing day of the year, though, there was an unused balance of $18,327,253 in the Motor License Fund. That is the additional amount which the department might

PETITION COURT TO DISSOLVE FALLS SCHOOL

Falls Township School District
Will Receive $4900, Says
Attorney

LAI D OUT BY WM. PENN

FALLS TOWNSHIP, Sept. 28—A petition to dissolve a corporation, known as the Trustees of the Falls Township Free School, was filed in the Court of Common Pleas, at Doylestown, Wednesday by J. Lawrence Grim.

According to Mr. Grim, the Falls Township School District will receive about $4900 after the corporation is dissolved by an order of the Court. The sum represents a trust fund which is no longer necessary now that the establishment of the free school system in Falls township provides a common school education for the children of the district.

CHURCH WEDDINGS OCCUR HERE DURING WEEK-END

Thompson-Swangler and Bell-
Peltz Wedding in First Baptist Edifice

ONE AT ST. MARK'S

The First Baptist Church was the scene of a wedding Saturday at four p. m., when Miss Dorothy Swangler, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Swangler, Outer street, became the bride of Charles R. Thompson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Thompson, 587 Bath street.

Miss Mildred Dyer, Lafayette street, played Lohengrin's wedding march as the bridal party entered the church, and prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Elwood Dyer, Lafayette street, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because." Amid a setting of palms and flowers, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Howard L. Zepp, pastor.

The bride's attendants were Miss Elizabeth Cline, maid of honor; and Miss Elaine Cline, bridesmaids. The Misses Cline are cousins of the bride and reside in Burlington, N. J. Janice and June Nichols, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Nichols, Rahway, N. J., nieces of the groom, were flower girls. Serving as best man was John Poulette, Newport Road, and the ushers were Jackson Bauer, Croydon, and John Tomlinson, Walnut street.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, was gownned in white satin trimmed with lace, fashioned on long form-fitting lines, long sleeves cut full to the elbow with lace and tight-fitting to the wrist. A long train featured lace pointed insertions. A Princess Ann collar of lace adorned the neck. Her slippers were white satin, and her veil of tulle edged with lace was made with a lace cap and trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried white lilies.

The maid of honor was attired in a gown of royal blue lace made on long close-fitting lines, high cut neckline and jacket effect with short sleeves. Miss Cline wore a velvet turban with face veil and lace mits to match her gown, silver slippers, and carried a bouquet of pink roses, blue delphinium and baby breath. The bridesmaid wore a gown of wine tone moire taffeta, fashioned on form-fitting lines, high neckline and a three-quarter length tunic with short puffed sleeves. Her lace mits, tulle turban finished with a velvet band and face veil

SIGNED "CONSENTING MOTHER" FORM; IS GUILTY OF FORGERY

Mrs. Margaret Thompson, of Philadelphia, Signed Name
Of the Girl's Mother

HER SON IS MARRIED

Given Suspended Sentence and Fined in Bucks
County Courts

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 28—Little did Mrs. Margaret Thompson, 55-year-old mother-in-law realize on April 29 when she signed as the "consenting mother" a marriage license form of her 15-year-old future daughter-in-law that she would be convicted of a charge of forgery in court here and directed to pay the sum of $200 and the costs of prosecution.

Mrs. Thompson, who lives at 1517 Gillingham street, Frankford, had a son, Elwood Thompson, who loved his 15-year-old sweetheart, Edith C. Scott. Because it was impossible for the young blonde high school girl to marry without her parents' or guardian's consent, Mrs. Thompson, the mother of the boy, forged the name of the girl's "consenting mother," Mrs. Edith Scott, 1519 Gillingham street.

It all happened in the office of Justice of the Peace James Laughlin in Croydon, April 20, when the young couple, accompanied by friends, Rose and Edward Fuller, and the boy's mother, made application for the marriage license. The young couple were married four days later.

In the application for the marriage license the 15-year-old high school girl swore she was 18 years old.

"I didn't know until I was going home that I signed a paper giving them permission to get married. I had no idea what I was signing," "After you found out you signed a marriage license application, why didn't you make further inquiry?" demanded the District Attorney.

"I didn't ask anything. I was sick and nervous," said Mrs. Thompson.

Before pronouncing sentence, Judge Calvin S. Boyer, after the jury returned a verdict of guilty, said: "Your case has given the Court a great deal of concern and difficulty. The unfortunate phase of the case is that you did not plead guilty but testified as you did, perjuring yourself and, worse yet, permitting your young son and daughter-in-law to go on the stand and join you in your story-telling. Had you thrown yourself on the mercy of the Court you would have avoided perjury yourself."

Mrs. Thompson, who was given a suspended sentence on condition that she pay the sum of $200 in lieu of a fine and placed on probation for five years with Miss L. Gertrude Bright in charge as the probation officer, was directed to pay the sum and cost of prosecution within 30 days.

She wept as she was escorted from the courtroom by her son and youthful daughter-in-law, whose mother, Mrs. Edith Scott did not know of this wedding until this Summer.

Of apparent good reputation and respectability, Mrs. Thompson was described as a "Christian" by several character witnesses. She is the wife of a Philadelphia police officer and was never in any previous trouble.

"The whole thing was cleverly planned, very cleverly done, that you should wait in the car as if you were the girl's mother, hasten in and sign her mother's name, and then leave," Judge Boyer added, emphasizing the point that neither the jury nor the Court ever for a moment believed a single word of her story.

When Adam Deputila, who pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault and battery before Judge Boyer, Friday afternoon, and called on his boss, Dominic Kay, of Morrisville, to serve as his character witness, the

FILL FOOD BASKET

In some respects, the report by economists of the agricultural department, that the national food basket for this year will be nearly as full as was that of last year, is reassuring.

These authorities set forth that "although the drought has cut sharply into the nation's feed crops, the total supply of foods in general for the twelve months ending with June, 1937, is indicated to be only about 3 per cent below that of 1935-36 and 1 per cent less than in 1934-35. Since exports of many of these products probably will be less than in the previous year, the supply of food available for domestic consumption will be almost as large as last year." So it seems the nation is in no danger of starvation.

But there is another side to this matter which does not receive the official attention it deserves. We will leave the details to the housewives of the country, merely saying that it concerns costs to the consumer. If the national food basket is to be nearly as full as it was last year—full enough, we are assured it will be, to meet our needs—why, then, the rise in prices, present and prospective? Prices are supposed to be governed by supply. If the supply is adequate, why do not prices remain stable?

This is something the Administration might take into consideration. Apparently the food processors have not heard the good news which the agriculture department economists are passing out. They seem to be proceeding on the assumption that the contrary is true and will continue to be true. Mr. Wallace's department is maffing its true job. If the secretary himself can spare a little time from the study of his favorite philosophy, that of the economy of scarcity, he might do us all a real service by seeing that the purveyors of foodstuffs get the true lowdown on the food situation as it has been revealed to his economists. Otherwise consumers may be victimized.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol, April 1, 1875. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The Farmers National Bank on last Tuesday discounted 124 notes amounting to about $50,000.

The street committee, finance committee and nuisance committee organized last Monday evening, making A. L. Packer chairman of the street committee, James M. Clark chairman of the finance committee, and C. W. Peirce chairman of the nuisance committee.

The Presbytery of Philadelphia, North, will meet in the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. Knox, pastor, on Tuesday, 20th inst., at 11½ o'clock a. m. There will be at least 50 ministers and ruling elders present. The moderator, Rev. Mr. McCullough, of Germantown, will preach the opening sermon. All the sessions are open to the public.

The funeral of William G. Wilson, on Tuesday last, was attended by a large body of the members of the Red Men, Knights of Pythias, and Bristol Fire Company, No. 1, in all of which organizations Mr. Wilson had been an active and honored member. During the funeral service, which preceded his death, he bore himself with Christian fortitude, calmly and patiently awaiting the end.

The railroad bridge over the Bristol road below Scottsville, is referred to by one of reporters in another column. From other sources we have learned of the singular manner of its erection, the abutments jutting into the road in a very awkward manner. The township authorities should not have permitted such bungling work.

Workmen have resumed their labor of putting in the street mains of the Water Company. Yesterday they were engaged on Market between Wood and Cedar streets.

Dr. E. J. Groom, William Booz and Milton Webster, all living on Mill street, have put water pipes in their houses, and made connections with the street mains.

NEWTOWN—Hugh Atkinson, proprietor of the Brick Hotel, died very suddenly on Monday, after a short illness.

The brother of S. Hillard, who owns the Temperance Hotel in this place, has purchased the Black Bear Hotel, where he intends to unfold the temperance banner.

NEWPORTVILLE—A great many removals will take place in Newportville today. No less than 22 families will change from house to house, and two will leave the town, whose late residences will be filled by newcomers. But few farmers in this vicinity will change places. Hugh Douglass, at present with A. McVaine, in Bensalem, will remove to the farm recently bought of Gilbert Green by C. N. Taylor, in Falls Township. The veteran debater of Attleboro, J. Kirkbridge, who has often figured conspicuously in the Newportville Lyceum, will also move to Falls, but will still make his weekly visits to the lyceum.

Yesterday morning a horse and wagon backed into the canal at Closson's hotel. A farmer who drove the horse was attempting to hitch the animal, when it took a sudden notion to back, and in spite of the strenuous exertions of the man persisted in going over. The wagon top was torn considerably, the man bruised slightly, but all were brought back to terra firma without much damage being sustained.

Mrs. Herman Becker was hostess Wednesday evening to the members of her sewing club. Those present were: Mrs. J. Schumacker, Mrs. S. Campbell, Mrs. M. Flannigan, Mrs. J. Olson, Mrs. E. Loper, Mrs. B. Perente, Mrs. A. Hogan, Mrs. I. Cotshott and Mrs. M. Cotshott. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. Campbell. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Schumaker were visiting relatives in Barnegat recently.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Flannigan have improved their house with a coat of paint.

Mrs. Joseph Kinney and son are still in Frankford Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Cotshott and family spent a recent week end in Barnegat, N. J.

Cubmaster Becker and his boys spent September 20th in Doylestown. Mrs. Annie Rose spent Friday in Haddon Heights visiting her sister, Mrs. Lillie Joyce.

POCKETBOOK FACTS ABOUT YOUR TAXES

Individual Tax $3.76

While the billions of the public debt, representing a future burden of taxation, are almost beyond comprehension, the share of each individual can be stated in terms of every day life.

The total debt, Federal, State and local, amounted in 1935 to $376.24 for each man, woman and child in the United States. This is the sum which each individual is obligated to pay interest on and eventually to repay in full. It is a mortgage which takes precedence over all liens due to private debt.

Before the World War the public debt, Federal, State and local, was less than $60 for each man, woman and child or about $285 for the average family.

HOLLYWOOD — In Hollywood light life, anything is liable to happen, but Eddie Sutherland and Edgar Allan Woolf can take bows for the craziest routine in months. They showed up at the Trocadero the other evening with a man who has invented an electric tooth brush and proceeded to hawk the device to prominent stay-up-aters. Among the celebs who tried out and bought the gadgets are Edmund Lowe, Harpo Marx, Clarence Brown and Jim McGuinness.

As soon as the Fred MacMurrays can get around to it, they will build a house and join the film colony home owners. They have bought an acre two blocks from the Gary Coopers and, like Gary, plan to erect a modest establishment.

Meanwhile, Mrs. MacMurray, the former Lillian Lamont, is in the Queen of the Angels hospital, still suffering from the illness she contracted on the "Maid of Salem" location.

If it is true, as rumored, that R-K-O will pay Bob Burns $75,000 for a single picture, Lela Rogers will probably want to throw up her hands and scream.

For, just before the Arkansas humorist went to New York and made a hit on the Rudy Vallee program, Lela practically went down on her knees and begged the studio to sign Burns to a contract.

At that time, Ginger's talent-scouting mother could have tied the comedian up for a salary around $100 a week.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Bessie Fleetwood, San Jose: The verdict of Jean Muir's fan mail upholds her in darkening her hair. Eighty per cent of the letters are favorable. Incidentally, the news has shot the star's mail to the top rank at the studio. It has also created a problem for the fan mail department, for nearly all of the letter writers want new pictures of the star, and the studio has only blonde ones to supply.

ZaSu Pitts is writing a cook book, and this is not one of those books that you hear about stars writing but which never appear. The Pitts' hands may look fluttery and helpless on the screen but they are very capable around the kitchen and ZaSu has worked out some very tasty recipes.

Housewives will be interested to hear that the kitchen of her new home will be circular in design.

Craig Reynolds, the lad who once talked Mary Pickford into taking a ride on the back of his motorcycle, is acting as chauffeur these days to Lois January, pretty Universal starlet. He volunteered to drive her to the train the other night, but, when they got there, it had pulled out. So Reynolds gallantly drove the actress all the way to San Francisco, where she was headed to appear in the play, "Meet My Sister".

Here and there in Hollywood... The Joan Blondell-Dick Powell wedding was another proof that, with all their success, these stars are still wearing the same size hats. Besides her family, the only friends Joan invited to the ceremony were Ruth Pursey, her hairdresser, and Cora Lobb, a wardrobe woman at Warners.

Dick's best man was Regis Toomey, a friend from the lean days of long ago... Margot Grahame's escort these evenings is Reginald Gardiner, who is heading eastward soon to play opposite Beatrice Lilla. ... Ginger Rogers is nert about "Dodsworth" and says if Walter Huston doesn't get the academy award for his performance, there ought to be a rebellion.

The honeymoon must still be on for Claudette Colbert. The moment "Maid of Salem" finished work at Santa Cruz, she taxied to San Francisco and took a plane to Hollywood and Dr. Pressman.

Lyda Roberti had the swellest time furnishing her new apartment, but forgot the bedding and had to rush around all evening trying to buy some. ... And Barbara Baroness is denying those new rumors of her engagement to Douglas MacLean.

Today's Puzzle: What New York film executive would be so embarrassed if the story got out about the washing he helped hang on a certain line the other day?

"THE BIG FOUR" by Agatha Christie

SYNOPSIS

Hercule Poirot, world-famous detective, is expending every effort to track down a band of international criminals known as "The Big Four." Secret Service Agent Mayerling, who had not been heard from since going to Russia five years ago, mysteriously enters Poirot's home. Though dazed, and obviously suffering from shock, he reveals Li Chang Yen, a powerful mandarin, is the brains of the Big 4; No. 2 is a wealthy American; No. 3 a Frenchwoman, and No. 4 the "Destroyer." Mayerling is murdered with prussic acid while Poirot and his assistant, Hastings, are out. Shortly afterwards, a man claiming to be a keeper at the Hanwell Asylum arrives and identifies the victim as an escaped inmate. Under the pretext of making funeral arrangements the "keeper" leaves. A telephone call to the asylum discredits his story. Poirot believes he was the "Destroyer" returning to make sure Mayerling was dead. John Ingles, an authority on sinister Chinese affairs, believes Li Chang Yen responsible for world-wide unrest and labor troubles. Captain Kent of the United States Secret Service reveals to Poirot that the destruction of several torpedo boats and destroyers, following the Japanese earthquake and attributed to the elements, was, in reality, due to some powerful wireless installation capable of focusing a beam of great intensity upon a given spot. A young scientist, named Halliday, had discussed the success of such an experiment but had been scoffed at by his colleagues. Since then Halliday has disappeared. Poirot calls on the scientist's wife. Hastings relates what happens:

CHAPTER XI

Mrs. Halliday received us at once, a tall, fair woman, nervous and eager in manner. With her was her little girl, a beautiful child of five.

Poirot explained the purpose of our visit.

"Oh! Monsieur Poirot, I am so glad to see you. I have heard of you, of course. You will not be like these Scotland Yard people, who will not listen or try to understand. And the French Police are just as bad—worse, I think. They are all convinced that my husband has gone off with some other woman. But he wasn't like that! All he thought of in life was his work. Half our quarrels came from that. He cared for it more than he did for me."

"Englishmen, they are like that," said Poirot soothingly. "And if it is not work, it is the games, the sport. All those things they take so very seriously. Now, Madame, recount to me exactly, in detail, and as methodically as you can, the exact circumstances of your husband's disappearance."

"My husband went to Paris on Thursday, the 20th of July. He was to meet and visit various people there connected with his work, amongst them Madame Olivier."

Poirot nodded at the mention of the famous French woman chemist, who had eclipsed even Madame Curie in the brilliance of her achievements. She had been decorated by the French Government, and was one of the most prominent personalities of the day.

"He arrived there in the evening and went at once to the Hotel Castiglione in the Rue de Castiglione. On the following morning, he had an appointment with Professor Bourgoin, which he kept. His manner was normal and pleasant. The two men had a most interesting conversation, and it was arranged that he should witness some experiments in the professor's laboratory on the following day. He went for a walk in the Bois, and then visited Madame Olivier at her house at Passy. There, also, his manner was perfectly normal. He left about six. Where he dined is not known, probably alone at some restaurant. He returned to the hotel about eleven o'clock and went straight up to his room, after inquiring if any letters had come for him. On the following morning, he walked out of the hotel, and has not been seen again."

"At what time did he leave the hotel? At the hour when he would normally leave it to keep his appointment at Professor Bourgoin's laboratory?"

"One only, and that must have been the one I wrote him on the day he left England."

Poirot remained sunk in thought for a full minute, then he rose briskly to his feet.

"Well, Madame, the solution of the mystery lies in Paris, and to find it I myself journey to Paris on the instant."

"It is all a long time ago, Monsieur."

"Yes, yes. Nevertheless, it is there that we must seek."

He turned to leave the room, but paused with his hand on the door.

"Tell me, Madame, do you ever

When questioned by Poirot, Mrs. Halliday said that her husband had disappeared in Paris... he left his hotel and has not been seen since.

"We do not know. He was not remarked leaving the hotel. But no petit déjeuner was served to him, which seems to indicate that he went out early."

"Or he might, in fact, have gone out again after he came in the night before?"

"I do not think so. His bed had been slept in, and the night porter would have remembered any one going out at that hour."

"A very just observation, Madame. We may take it, then, that he left early on the following morning—and that is reassuring from one point of view. He is not likely to have fallen a victim to any Apache assault at that hour. His baggage, now, was it all left behind?"

Mrs. Halliday seemed rather reluctant to answer, but at last she said:

"No—he must have taken one small suitcase with him."

"Hm," said Poirot thoughtfully, "I wonder where he was that evening. If we knew that, we should know a great deal. Whom did he meet?—there lies the mystery. Madame, myself I do not of necessity accept the view of the police; with them it is always 'Cherchez la femme.' Yet it is clear that something occurred that night to alter your husband's plans. You say he asked for letters on returning to the hotel. Did he receive any?"

The advertisements in this paper are guide-posts to the best values in town. If they weren't the best values in town, by any chance, the advertisers would be foolish indeed to call your attention to them. Because no advertiser can afford to focus upon a fault!

Just as you consult a road-map before taking a tour in your car; just as you pore over a bill-of-fare before ordering lunch or dinner; just as you read reams of booklets and folders before starting out on a cruise—read the advertisements before going downtown into the shopping traffic.

Advertisements are advance news of all that's newest and best in merchandise and service. They show you, in the quiet and comfort of your home, what you may expect when you sally forth into the market-places. You can check the items that interest you, and "chuck" those that don't. "AMERICA IS IN PERIL," SENATOR G. MASON OWLETT TELLS LARGE REPUBLICAN AUDIENCE IN ADDRESS AT DOYLESTOWN; DELIVERS STIRRING ADDRESS FOLLOWING COMMITTEE MEETING

Senator Says All Who Study Legislation Prepared by Band of College Professors and Near Communists Coaching President Roosevelt and Enacted by Subservient Congress, Realize the Truth of the Statement That This Nation Faces a Critical Situation.

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 28—Senator G. Mason Owlett's address here Saturday afternoon follows in full text:

There are four words which sum up the real underlying basic issue of this campaign; they are the four words comprising the first sentence of the Republican National Platform, adopted at Cleveland. They are: "America Is In Peril."

All who study the legislation prepared by the band of college professors and near Communists coaching President Roosevelt, and forced through a subservient Congress by him, realize the truth of those four words. This legislation makes a complete picture for us of the kind of America the New Deal would provide for its citizens.

All these enactments were deliberately and cleverly designed to start America on the road to a completely paternalistic State, a State where the Government at Washington would control the everyday life of its citizens, would control all business activities, would make the agricultural interests of the country wholly subservient to its will, would bring labor under the stifling influence of an insidious bureaucracy, and would wipe out State lines and State sovereignty.

That this is the object of President Roosevelt and his advisers is recognized by all impartial students of the history of the past three years. It is recognized by many who started with this Administration believing that the 1932 Democratic Platform meant what it said.

Many of President Roosevelt's original supporters, who had responsible positions in his administration, have found it impossible to continue their support, and have withdrawn from his official family.

These men today are supporting Governor Landon. They are giving us the benefit of the knowledge they learned while actually within the Administration, as to what its real objects are.

The Administration very soon committed itself to a policy of socialized farming. It committed itself to the Government domination of business in every phase, through the National Recovery Act. It committed itself to the Government ownership and control of public service. It immediately devised schemes to make Labor vassals of the State.

All these major policies of the New Deal were designed by men who never earned livings in industry, commerce, finance or farming, and who have absolutely no comprehension as to how livings are earned. Facts mean nothing to them. They are long on theories but short on arithmetic. These men would remake the United States as merely an incident to remaking the world.

One of the outstanding men of the country, who started out with this Administration, but finally could stand it no longer and withdrew, tells us that any one in Washington who attempted to apply elementary common sense during the formulation of the New Deal legislation was denounced as an obstructionist. He found it was hereby to assert that two plus two equal four.

These advisers called together by Roosevelt between his election and his inauguration can all be properly termed fanatics. Recovery was not their objective, but rather reform along the lines of their pet theories. They consider themselves above the realm of ordinary human beings. They consider that their objectives transcend the objectives of the average man. To these people the ordinary codes of mental honesty mean nothing. Platform pledges are so much paper. To them the ordinary rules of human conduct were designed by backwoods ignoramus of horse and buggy days. To them our Constitution is merely something to be circumvented and put aside.

Intolerance is their most distinguishing characteristic. They are intolerant of all who dare voice an objection to their plans. All who question the wisdom of their objectives are to them public enemies. They realize their designs for a paternalistic State cannot materialize while citizens retain the ownership of property they have accumulated through the sweat of their brow.

The chief obstacle to the planned and regimented Government which these men would impose upon us is the high standard of living in this country, and the widespread ownership of property.

Because a man without a job needing Government assistance can better be controlled by them, ever increasing direct and work relief rolls merely hasten the arrival of "der Tag."

Since the manufacturer free to run his own business is not apt to willingly submit to their dictates, he is placed under a Code, and through the taxing laws, not permitted to accumulate a surplus. The A. A. A. was designed to bring the great body of American Farmers under their wings.

For these reasons the Reciprocal Trade Agreements were made for the lowering of the tariff, as the surest method of breaking down the American standard of living, by mingling it with the international standard of living. These men know that the more we spend the greater our taxes will have to be, and the greater our taxes the less widespread will become the ownership of property.

Thus we have had a flagrant and almost immoral use of the people's money. All these facts tend to create a public more subservient to the practice of their theories and to the substitution of a centralized Government in Washington for our traditional State and Local Government.

The plans which they follow and the schemes which they propose bear a close resemblance to the tactics pursued in setting up the new Governments in Russia, Italy and Germany.

Thus it is that all except those on the Relief Rolls or the WPA rolls become "economic royalists" and "enemies of the country." We surely are justified in saying "America Is In Peril" if the men with these theories, so foreign to the American System town of four thousand people, the County Seat of a rural community, became a billion dollar Senator, became the personal representative of all that was supposed to be vicious, merely because I joined with my colleagues in trying to preserve the Pennsylvania Constitution, and to reduce taxation. If such appeals, if such tirades are to be effective, I shudder to think what will happen to our Democracy.

Just consider with me the picture at Harrisburg—

Witness what happened when the Senate of Pennsylvania tried to investigate and show to the people what was being done with the WPA money sent into this State for relief. This investigation was started in Pennsylvania because all kinds of stories were current as to the improper use of WPA funds. This investigation was started in Pennsylvania after President Roosevelt himself had called upon the people to watch the work in every corner of the Nation. In spite of the efforts of the New Dealers to keep from the people the improper use of relief funds in this State, much is being learned every day.

To my mind there is nothing more revealing as to the character of the New Deal Government, which we are seeking to stamp out thru this campaign than many of the facts we now know about the WPA.

There is a case in Perry County of a WPA project which has just been brought to my attention. This is a project for the rewriting, revising, cataloguing and indexing of all the Borough ordinances of Marysville Borough. The WPA furnishes the personnel and the Borough the supplies and office. The head of the project is John E. Rousch of Marysville. There was furnished to him an assistant for this work of cataloguing and indexing—a junior clerk.

Rousch writes, however, that he has to do everything, as this junior clerk cannot typewrite, write English or spell. We learn, however, that this junior clerk knew enough to register Democratic and he knows enough to have in his window a picture of Roosevelt. He also knows enough to get on the WPA even though he is single and his parents are working every day, while Marysville men are being discharged because they are not willing to sell their inalienable right of suffrage for a job.

One of Perry County's wealthiest men, a bank director and owner of a farm valued at $7,000, as well as a cattle ranch, with money in the bank, has a WPA job as a foreman, said to be at $200 per month. He turns out to be a leading New Deal political leader in his locality.

In Cumberland County an elderly director of a bank, who has been retired for over ten years, is receiving $150 per month as a WPA foreman. I presume it is only incidental that this man is an active New Deal leader in Cumberland County and although not needing the money, is receiving this $150 per month while many of the needy of that county suffer from hunger or barely eke out an existence on the Relief rolls.

This is not the only political case in Cumberland County. The wife of a successful security salesman and an employee of a local utility receives $150 per month as head of a sewing project. This same woman has an assistant at $110 a month while her assistant's husband continues to be employed in the position he has held since 1916 and her husband owns four homes in Carlisle renting for over $100 per month. I wonder if it is a mere coincidence that these two women are New Deal leaders in Carlisle and have Roosevelt's pictures in their windows.

In this same county there is a case of a man prominent in New Deal political circles who happens to have constantly held WPA jobs, while his daughter has steady employment, while his wife has steady employment, while his son is holding a job in the State Highway Department and at the same time living with his father-in-law, who owns his own home and receives an old age pension from the State.

In this same county resides a man who is receiving a Federal retirement allotment of $100 per month and at the same time holds down a foreman's job on the WPA. An investigation discloses that his main qualification is that he is an active New Deal political worker.

Up in Juniata County is the case of a woman reputed to be receiving a salary of $140 per month as supervisor of a sewing project in Millintown. She makes her home with her father who is a State Highway caretaker. Another member of her family is superintendent of a C. C. camp. Another, a brother, has a State Highway job, and her husband is a successful car salesman. They live in a beautiful home owned by them. It turns out that she is an active New Deal political worker.

But then you do not have to go as far as Juniata County to discover cases of men who conduct businesses on which they spend most of their time, who are also on the WPA payroll. There are plenty of them right here in Philadelphia, for instance, there is a Democratic committeeman in the second ward in South Philadelphia who owns two barber shops and is at the same time a foreman on the South Broad street paving project. Whenever any one wants this man he does not go to the project, he goes to the barber shops. It is interesting to know that one of this man's sons works for the Mint in Philadelphia and another for the Post Office.

I suppose that Mr. Hopkins or Mr. Jones would deny that there was any politics in the selection of Jack Kelly's brother Pat at $5,000 a year to allocate the new appropriation of $44,000,000 for WPA projects in Philadelphia. Do you think that we can trust Pat to forget that there is an election on November 3rd when he allocates this money? We can undoubtedly all rest assured that there will be no politics in the distribution of these funds.

We have discovered that there is an occasional job created on the WPA for other than political reasons. This came to our attention when we learned of the personal friend of Governor Earle who resided up in New York State.

Apparently the Governor wished this former companion of his to be more readily available than was possible if he continued to reside in this New York State City, so he brought him to Harrisburg and, although formerly a candy manufacturer placed him at the head of the Women's Sewing Division at $3600 per year. This man is an assistant under Gertrude Ely, who ran on the New Deal ticket in Montgomery County for State Senator and who was rewarded for her services with a $5,000 job with the WPA.

Is it any wonder that Governor Earle and Eddie Jones and Harry Hopkins stopped the WPA investigation in Pennsylvania? It is clear they were afraid of all these disclosures. Do we not have the right to conclude that such an investigation would disclose in Pennsylvania not only the cheating of the needy in our State by the passing out of money intended for them to New Deal politicians not in need of relief, but also that such an investigation would have brought out conditions similar to those uncovered recently in New York City.

It was found there, from a report that was intended to be pigeonholed, that dead men were on the payrolls, that convicts serving time were on the payrolls; that men while enjoying vacations in Florida, Mexico and Europe were receiving WPA checks; that men with non-existent addresses were being paid fat salaries.

This report showed that 27% of the cases examined in New York City did not live at the addresses given, nor at any addresses on file in the Works Progress Administration office. Among the addresses shown were vacant lots, theatres, fire departments and public schools.

One regular recipient of checks was away on a honeymoon. Others were absent for weeks on vacations and because of intoxication, and all the time their pay continued.

Is it not fair to conclude that the pay checks of these dead men and the pay checks of the convicts serving time, and the pay checks of many others, found their way into the coffers of the New Deal politicians, or the New Deal Campaign Fund?

Would it not be interesting to know how many dead men are on the payrolls of Pennsylvania, would it not be interesting to know how many men on vacations in Florida, Mexico and Europe and how many convicts serving prison terms are on the payrolls of the WPA in our State? We already know that an escaped convict from Far View was one of the hunger marchers brought to Harrisburg during the Special Session of the Senate, and supported, under the orders of Governor Earle, by the taxpayers of Pennsylvania during their drive on the Capital.

Would it not be interesting to know the total sum which the Guffey, Earle, Lawrence political machine has obtained from WPA workers, from WPA contractors and from the WPA funds in general? The reason we do not have these definite figures is because Mr. Jones and Mr. Hopkins sent to Harrisburg a whole retinue of New Deal legal lights and obtained a Federal injunction to prevent the disclosure of the truth about the WPA. Never in the political history of this country, never in the balmy days of the most corrupt political machines has there been such a brazen attempt to use the taxpayer's money in the downright purchase of votes.

Is it any wonder that the patriotic Jeffersonian Democrats who through so many years have adhered to the principles of their party, now find that they can no longer stand for the New Deal? Never in the history of political parties in these United States have so many of the National leaders of any party gone over to the opposition.

These men realize that New Dealers masquerading as Democrats have deserted the principles of their party, which has now become merely a conglomeration of Communists, Socialists and Job holders.

We must bring home to the unemployed that these New Deal politicians are cheating them. We must show them how the funds wrested from the taxpayers for their benefit are being used to fatten the coffers of the henchmen of this machine.

It is impossible that the unfortunate citizen of this country who has been compelled, thru no fault of his own, to seek employment at $50 or $60 per month, on a WPA project in order to exist, should feel grateful to Roosevelt or Earle or any of the other New Deal politicians. These men should be made to understand that although they are the ones intended to be provided for by this money, this crowd, in order to perpetuate their power, have diverted it to their own benefit and the benefit of their organization.

At the last special session in Harrisburg the Republicans in the Senate discovered that almost one-sixth of the money appropriated by the Legislature to take care of direct relief was going into the pay envelopes of those admin-have spent to build new roads and improve old roads if Van Dyke and his political assistants had been able to plan their program properly.

The real story of the New Dealers' road building activity lies in the record of the purposes for which close to $55,000,000 were spent.

After deducting debt charges, subsidies, grants and a $10,000,000 loan to the General Fund, the Department had $37,817,852 which was spent for actual road work and administrative costs. This figure compares with $62,459,355 for the previous fiscal year.

Practically all of this reduction was in the direct expenditures for road building and repairs. These items are contracted building and construction, contracted repairs, purchases of road building materials and supplies and the wages paid to workers on road projects. For these purposes, the Highway Department, under Van Dyke, spent $26,516,187, or nearly half of the $46,478,324 which was spent for these purposes during the previous year.

Although the unwieldy departmental machinery was thus kept operating at half speed, there was no proportionate reduction in the overhead expenditures. The cost of maintaining the department was, to the taxpayer, almost as great as though Van Dyke and his New Dealers had been out building and repairing highways.

As compared with a decrease of nearly 50 per cent in the expenditures for road construction and repairs, the department's expenditures for salaries dropped only from $5,513,109 to $5,366,842. This represents the decrease in the salaries payroll over the full-year period. Most of the decrease resulted from the first orgy of dismissing veteran employees. For some time, the payroll trend has been decidedly upward. The monthly total of salaries (exclusive of per diem workers actually employed on road projects) increased from $277,819 in May 1935, to $368,847 in May, this year. The peak has not been reached and there is every evidence that the department's salary total will be at new record levels for the present fiscal year.

Summarized, the first fiscal year record of the department under Van Dyke means simply that the Little New Deal has been wasting millions of dollars by maintaining a costly administrative set-up, while road building and road repair proceeded at a snail-like pace.

istering a top-heavy relief system in Pennsylvania.

When the Special Session convened in May Pennsylvania was spending from its own revenues, without the assistance of the Federal Government, almost $7,000,000 a month for direct relief and of this $7,000,000 a month almost $1,000,000 a month was going for administrative salaries. The Republican majority in the Senate felt that this money should be used for the relief of the distressed rather than to pay for salaries. They felt that relief could be properly administered and still not pay out almost 15% for administrative expenses. We soon found, however, that this proposal did not fit in to the New Deal's plans to control this election. Governor Earle and his henchmen said "No, the salaries must go on."

We found that there were employed in the Harrisburg office of the State Emergency Relief Board, simply keeping the records in connection with the direct relief, 542 persons. Certain it is that the taxpayers of Pennsylvania should not be asked to maintain any such setup as that. If there were any chance that this present arrangement could continue, you should advise your children that, instead of studying law or medicine, or instead of contemplating a business career, they should go into the business of administering relief.

The Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board gets $660 a month and he has two assistants who each get $550 a month. The Director of Personnel receives $495 a month. He has an assistant at $335 a month and then this assistant has three assistants to the Assistant Director of Personnel at $250 a month each. The Methods must be supervised, with the lucky individual holding this job receiving $250 a month, who is given an assistant at the same salary.

You all know that statistics of all kinds is one of the hobbies of the New Deal, so they have a Chief Statistician and they pay him $250 a month, and he has five assistant Chief Statisticians and they get $200 a month each, and these five have four assistants to them and they get $175 a month each.

The Office Manager and Consultant on Office Supplies and Equipment receives $300 a month. The head of Procurement receives $325 a month and his assistant $300 a month. The head of the Medical Department gets $500 a month.

The Regional Supervisor receives $335 a month and the man who holds the position known as Consultant on Community Contracts receives $335 a month. A Special Field Representative gets a salary of $285 a month and works with eight assistants whose salaries range from $250 to $275 a month each.

There are any number of Comptrollers, two have the title Assistant State Comptroller at $375 a month each. Others receive $300 a month each. The taxpayer's money is handed out by a Chief Disbursing Officer who gets $350 a month and has a full quota of assistants. The Budget Supervisor receives $250 a month and his assistant receives $200 a month and the same salary is paid to the Supervisor of Leases and Contracts.

The office is overrun with accountants. There are accountants, assistant Senior Field Accountants, Field Accountants, Field Accountants A, Field Accountants B, Special Accounting Representative, General Accountants, Report Accountants and Accountant Auditors. There are 35 of them in all. Their salaries range from $150 to $350 a month each.

The Supervisor of Nutrition receives $220 a month. I suppose that the person holding that job sees that the people on relief eat the proper quota of carrots and lettuce.

Nobody knows how many employees they have on a per diem basis. The salaries of these per diem employees range from $13.50 to $37.50 per day. Is it any wonder that Governor Earle

COUNTY REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE RECEIVES LONDON MESSAGE

Greetings and Felicitations Sent by Airmail from Governor of Kansas

GIVEN MUCH APPLAUSE

Committee Elects Officers For Year and Hears of Certificate Drive Success

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 28—Receipt of an airmail dispatch from Governor Alf M. Landon, election of officers and the unanimous adoption of an amendment of the rules governing the Bucks County Republican Committee, featured a short session of the committee held here Saturday afternoon, previous to the Republican mass meeting in the armory.

The session was called to order by Chairman A. Harry Clayton, who, in well chosen words, extended greetings to the committeemen and committee-women and also welcomed the new members of the committee.

The call for the meeting was read by Edward Watson, secretary, and in view of a large majority of the members of the committee being present, the calling of the roll was dispensed with.

Officers chosen were: Chairman, A. Harry Clayton; vice-chairman, Mrs. Clarence J. Buckman; secretary, Edward Watson; assistant secretary, Miss Eleanor D. Worthington.

Chairman Clayton called Jacob H. Myers, Perkasie, to the platform, and named Assemblyman Wilson L. Yeakel to escort Mr. Myers to the appointed seat. It was announced by Mr. Clayton that Mr. Myers is 93 years of age and has voted the Republican ticket at every election, since casting his first ballot for Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Myers was seated amid the applause of the committee.

A letter was then read to the committee which had been dispatched by airmail from Governor Alfred M. Landon, Republican candidate for President. Enthusiastic applause was given at the conclusion of the reading.

Personal letter to County Chairman A. Harry Clayton, Doylestown, from Alfred M. Landon, Governor of Kansas: Dear Mr. Clayton:

The opposition brags that it has Pennsylvania in the bag. Those who know the sterling character of Pennsylvania Republicanism know that this is not true.

The spirit of the fathers from the great Keystone State will be your guidance and inspiration in the campaign, and on November 3rd, I am sure that Pennsylvania will be in the Republican column. The victory parade started in Maine, is being organized, ready to march, and the bugle will be sounded on November 3rd. Maine has proven that $5,000,000,000 can be beaten. If this can be done in the Pine Tree State it can be done in Pennsylvania. My greatest and best wishes to you.

Yours very truly,
ALFRED M. LANDON,
Governor.

Wilson L. Yeakel and Thomas B. Stockham, both candidates for reelection to the State Assembly, were introduced and given a hearty reception.

Dr. H. Clayton Moyer read the amendment to the county rules made necessary, he stated, "by the addition of new voting districts and precincts having been added to the county." These were adopted without a dissenting voice. The amendment was the suggestion of the committee on rules which convened September 5th, for the purpose of revising the existing rules which were adopted in 1921.

Mrs. John W. Cooper, president of the Bucks County Council of Republican Women, extended a cordial invitation to all of the women to attend an all-day meeting of the council which is to be held at Doylestown Country Club, October 8th. "We have arranged a splendid program for both morning and afternoon and we have listed a galaxy of outstanding speakers. We want you all to attend what we plan to be a delightful occasion," said Mrs. Cooper.

Miss Eleanor D. Worthington, chairman of the Dollar Certificate Drive in Bucks County, informed the committee that Bucks County had gone over the top, having more than obtained its quota of $2325. "We have up to this time, I am informed," stated Miss Worthington, "about $2875. Bucks County was the second county in the state to reach its quota. I hope we can raise our quota to $5,000."

Introduced as the chairman of the Young Republicans of Bucks County, Charles Roberts, Jr., Newtown, gave a brief report of the convention of the young Republicans which he attended at Harrisburg.

by the Republicans in aiding the Veterans. But look at the records. Look at the legislation that has been passed. Regard the veto that Roosevelt placed on the Bonus bill. And when you have looked at the record you will find that for every one bill passed by the Democrats to aid the Veterans there will be more than 2400 bills passed by Republicans to aid to Veterans."

"Look at the records, and not at unfulfilled promises," Mr. Gardner declared in closing.

Following Mr. Gardner's inspiring and enlightening address came another, as vigorous in its denunciation of the wasteful methods of the New Deal. This was delivered by Mrs. George R. Hemphill, president of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women.

Mrs. Hemphill, who resides in Beaver Falls, and who has been traveling 1,000 miles weekly campaigning for Alf M. Landon, Republican nominee for the Presidency, urged the women voters of Bucks county to do their utmost to rout the present Administration from office.

"The present campaign is a crusade for Americanism, and not merely a fight between two major political parties. And the women of this country must be in the fight. It is a fight by the women, for the women, and through the women," this talented Beaver Falls resident declared.

"It is up to the Republican party to send a group of men to Washington who know how to say something else besides 'yes'—we need men with a realization of the vital importance of the Constitution."

"If we do not put out the un-American men who now control our government, then we will lose our right to live under the Constitution and the wonderful privileges that it gives."

"There is only one issue in this campaign and that is Americanism. Are we going to be regimented and our powers taken by a dictator, or are we going to fight for our right to register our own opinions?" Mrs. Hemphill asked.

Mrs. Hemphill especially urged the precinct leaders and committeemen and committeewomen from every section of Bucks county to get out and fight for a Republican victory. "It is these members of the party that will really decide the issues. As the precinct goes so goes the nation," Mrs. Hemphill stated.

Striking at another aspect of New Deal tactics Mrs. Hemphill pointed out that the women of this country are beginning to realize that the soaring prices of food stuffs are not what the present Administration promised. "And this righteous indignation of the women of this country will even overcome the 5 billion dollars taken by the Democrats for their campaign."

Dwelling on the foreign trade policies which were so vigorously denounced by Mr. Gardner, Mrs. Hemphill declared, "The President likes to say he is a good neighbor, but I would rather have him if he were just a good President!"

"But Mr. Roosevelt is not sincere and he is not honest. His social security legislation is being offset by a tremendous increase in hidden taxes, and all the advantages are likewise disappearing. It is about time that he was forced to stop deceiving the American taxpayer. And the American women of this country will see to that on November 3rd!"

"And this fostering of class hatred by the New Deal is another practice that must be stopped. The next step from this is that of religious intolerance which runs counter to all the laws and policies that Americans have observed for years."

Summing up her brilliant address in one striking statement Mrs. Hemphill declared, "The New Deal has failed simply because it has not observed and followed common sense."

Preceding the speech of Senator Owlett came an address by Joseph N. Pew, recent delegate to the Republican National Convention in Cleveland, and a keen observer of the fallacies of the present Administration.

This gentleman from Montgomery county summed up his address in the statement, "Roosevelt's aims are leading to but one thing—to perpetuate himself in some form of a dictatorship."

"Roosevelt is a clever man, and make no mistake about that," Mr. Pew declared. "But he is the boss and without him there would be no New Deal. Two other men make up the real organization: Prof. Frankfurter and Prof. Tugwell. These three men are leading this country to a form of government that cannot help but be very similar to that of the Russians. This is the thing that we must fight against."

"Everywhere you turn you see the same thing—this same process of destroying—of destroying American customs, American traditions, the American way of living, the Constitution. He is ruining the small business man and aiding the large one—but all for a purpose. By placing the capital of the country in the hands of the few, Roosevelt, and his aides will find it easier to take over everything when the time is ripe."

Mr. Pew, who has had occasion to do much traveling over this broad country of ours, described the plight of the Western farmers who have been literally forced to accept the government dole and the subsequent reliance on this man who wants to make himself the dictator of the United States. "Of course the Western farmer never was exceedingly wealthy, but he never was placed in the deplorable condition of wretched poverty that he finds himself in today. And the bitterness of the whole set-up is that it was planned—planned by Mr. Roosevelt in a definite manner. And the farmers are now on the dole—at the command of the master, Mr. Roosevelt.

"We are not only engaged in a political battle, but in an economical warfare for the preservation of the credit and the right to earn a living that has always existed in this country. And in conclusion let me make this statement: Landon is the only hope left for a free America for Americans and for the children of Americans. He must be elected on November 3rd!"

Cumberland County and although not needing the money, is receiving this $150 per month while many of the needy of that county suffer from hunger or barely eke out an existence on the Relief rolls.

In this same county there is a case of a man prominent in New Deal political circles who happens to have constantly held WPA jobs, while his daughter has steady employment, while his wife has steady employment, while his son is holding a job in the State Highway Department and at the same time living with his father-in-law, who owns his own home and receives an old age pension from the State.

In this same county resides a man who is receiving a Federal retirement allotment of $100 per month and at the same time holds down a foreman's job on the WPA. An investigation discloses that his main qualification is that he is an active New Deal political worker.

Up in Juniata County is the case of a woman reputed to be receiving a salary of $140 per month as supervisor of a sewing project in Mifflintown. She makes her home with her father who is a State Highway caretaker. Another member of her family is superintendent of a C. C. C. camp. Another, a brother, has a State highway job, and her husband is a successful car salesman. They live in a beautiful home owned by them. It turns out that she is an active New Deal political worker.

Petition Court To Dissolve Falls School

tract of land in Falls township to be used for the education of poor children. The rental or sale of parcels of this tract was to provide money for the schooling of the pauper children.

With the advent of the free school system, the State Legislature ordered the tract of land sold and the money invested in mortgages.

In 1807 the Legislature created a corporation known as the Trustees of the Falls Township Free School and directed that the money be invested and used for the education of poor children.

Part of the original tract, which included the Manor of Pennsbury containing 120 acres, was sold for taxes and the money placed in a trust fund.

In 1864 permission was granted to sell the entire tract and invest the funds in mortgages.

With the passing of legislation in 1935, a special law terminates the trust originally started under William Penn and the State has consented to the dissolution of the corporation.

Mr. Grim pointed out to the Court, in the filing of the petition, that since the Falls Township School Board has assumed the responsibility of educating all the children in the school district it should receive the funds designed for the same purpose.

With the order of the Court, the funds will be handed over to the Falls township school district.

THE TORCH OF TRUTH KEEPS GLOWING

In Newspaper

Advertising

THE READING PUBLIC

Has come to accept without question that an advertiser in a reputable newspaper is telling the truth.

IT IS THE

Clearly recognized responsibility of the Newspapers to keep this Torch of Truthful Advertising glowing.

PENNSYLVANIA

Newspaper publishers recognize this duty as an ethical responsibility that likewise embodies a vital safeguard to the welfare of the newspaper business.

WHEN READER

Confidence is shaken by untruthful advertising, publishers endanger the greatest asset a newspaper possesses—Goodwill. Too, there is financial loss, for when readers look upon an advertisement with critical eyes—unsure of its truth—that advertisement can not conceivably produce those results by which advertising success is measured.

THE MERCHANT

Who stoops to misrepresentation and tricky advertising and who temporarily eludes the safeguards of an unsuspecting publisher, will benefit but briefly. In the end, his tactics revealed, goodwill vanishes and his sales diminish in direct proportion to his abuse of public faith.

GREAT STRIDES

Have been made in elevating the standards and ethics of newspaper advertising through elimination of fraudulent, exaggerated or misleading advertising copy. Constant vigilance and uncompromising rejection are the weapons with which Pennsylvania publishers have directed vigorous attack against that small fraction of advertisers who would transgress the lines of honesty and truth clearly laid down in the public interest. The great bulk of business today is on a plane higher than ever before. It recognizes the enormous value of Public Confidence. It goes to commendable extremes in its scrupulous honesty in advertising presentation, mindful that this policy constitutes sound business practice.

READERS CAN HELP THIS TRUTH CRUSADE

Every month Pennsylvania newspapers reject many thousands of dollars in proffered business because the advertising involved fails to meet the standards they require.

Newspapers and the men who make them are not infallible and despite all the care and caution that the newspaper can exercise there are occasions, rare in number, in which fraud and misrepresentation may creep in. Newspaper publishers will appreciate your aid and cooperation in promptly bringing such violations to their attention so that remedial measures may be applied effectively.

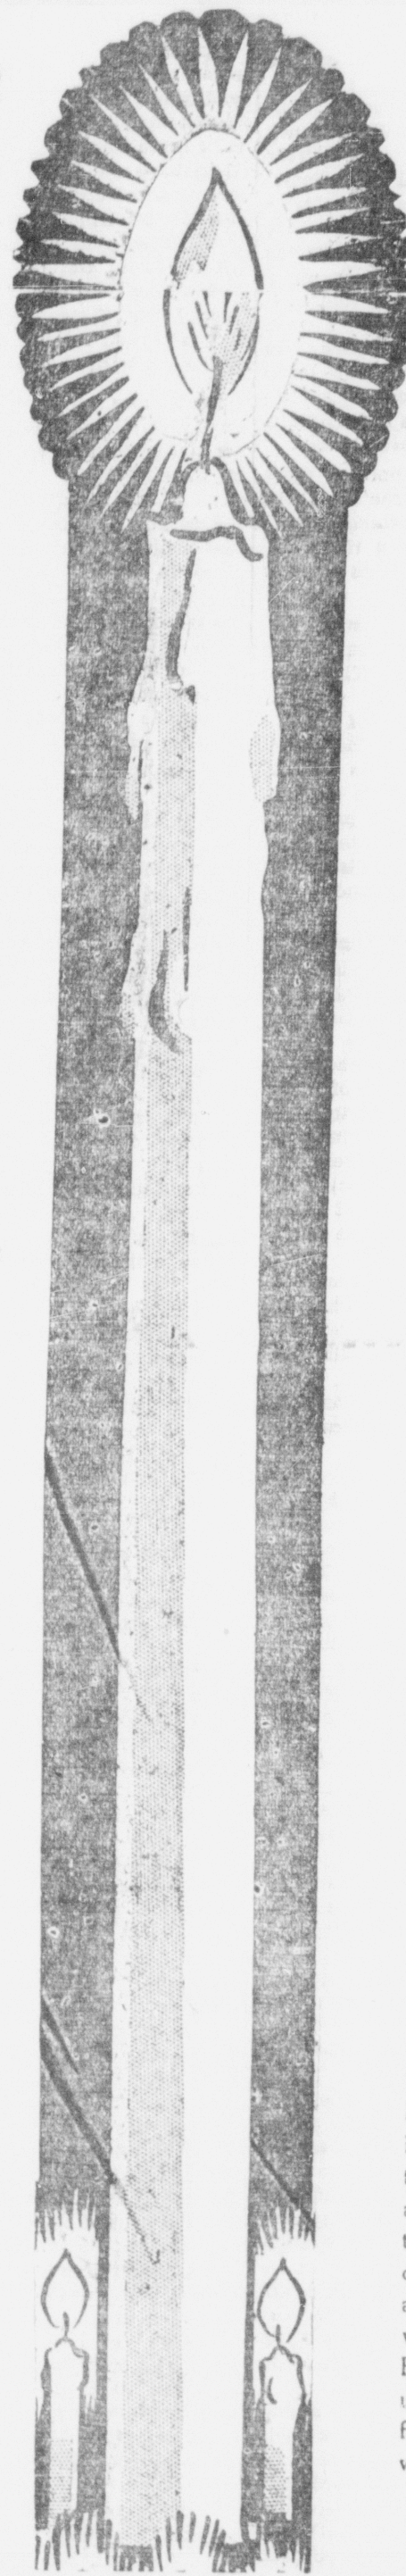

Merchants who are planning and building for the future—and they constitute the great preponderance of business interests in your city—do not try to trick the public. It is their desire to maintain and expand the public faith they have earned through truthfulness in their newspaper advertising.

Their Signatures to Advertisements Are Their Bonds

This statement is presented by co-operation of more than 300 Pennsylvania Newspapers which are participating in the Fifth Annual Observance of Newspaper Prestige Week.

atched her gown and her slippers were gold kid. Her bouquet was composed of yellow roses and baby breath tied with blending ribbon.

The flower girls were dressed in pale yellow georgette over pink tulle, trimmed with tiny pink rose-buds. They wore white slippers and anklets. Tiny yellow wreaths adorned their hair. Each carried miniature replicas of the attendants' bouquets.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left Saturday evening for Washington, D. C. Upon their return, they will reside at 587 Bath street. The bride travelled in a dark blue suit trimmed in white, with accessories to match.

Mrs. Thompson was employed as a clerk by Sears-Roebuck Company, Philadelphia. Mr. Thompson is employed at Rohm & Haas Chemical Plant.

At St. Mark's Catholic Church, Radcliffe street, an early Autumn wedding occurred at three o'clock, Saturday, when Miss Mary A. Dennen, 257 Jackson street, became the bride of Joseph A. Wilkinson, son of Mrs. Anna Wilkinson, 1019 Pond street. The Rev. Paul E. Baird officiated. The ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives and friends. As the bridal party entered the church, Miss Katharine Keating played Lehengrin's Wedding March. Mrs. Carl Winch, Trenton, N. J., sang "Ave Maria" and "I Love You Truly."

Miss Theresa Dennen, sister of the bride, was maid of honor; and Miss Anna Kennedy, 231 Lafayette street, was bridesmaid. Harry White, Jr., Burlington, N. J., served as best man.

The bride was gown in white broad-cord transparent velvet, fashioned on princess lines. The bodice featured the Queen Ann style collar and cow shape neckline with pearl clips. The long sleeves were puffed at the shoulders, and tight fitting to the wrists. The long skirt ended in a train. The shoulder veil of tulle, edged with lace, fell from a lace cap trimmed with a crown of orange blossoms. The bride wore white sandals and carried white roses.

Miss Dennen was attractive in royal blue transparent velvet. The gown was made with draped sleeves and long full skirt. Miss Dennen wore a blue velvet turban with face veil, silver sandals and carried Johanna Hill roses. Miss Kennedy was attired in Dubonette transparent velvet fashioned like Miss Dennen's gown. She wore a velvet turban with face veil to match her gown, silver sandals, and carried talisman roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride. Covers were laid for 50.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson left for their honeymoon Saturday evening on a motor trip to Niagara Falls, N. Y., and points in Canada. The couple will reside at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Wilkinson, born in Danville, has been a resident of Bristol for 11 years. She is employed by Thomas L. Leedom Company, and is a member of St. Mark's Sodality. Mr. Wilkinson was born in Bristol, attended St. Mark's School and is employed by D. Landreth Seed Company.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth E. Peltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Peltz, 383 Pond street, and Melvin F. Bell, 620 Pine street, took place Saturday at 4:30 p. m. in First Baptist Church with the Rev. Howard L. Zepp officiating. Miss Ethel Keers 1528 Trenton avenue, and Bruce Peltz, Jr., brother of the bride, attended the couple.

The bride wore a royal blue taffeta dress, with a three-quarter length tunic, short puffed sleeves, V-shape neckline trimmed with a navy blue bow. Her felt hat with face veil, shoes and gloves were navy blue, and she wore a corsage of white roses and snapdragons.

Miss Keers was attired in green taffeta fashioned like the dress of the bride, and her accessories were brown. She wore a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums and snapdragons.

BRISTOL ELEVEN HOLDS HOLMESBURG TO A SCORELESS TIE IN OPENING GAME OF LOCAL GRID SEASON

By T. M. Juno

Bristol football fans got their first glimpse of the professional eleven which will represent this borough on the gridiron this season yesterday afternoon when they saw the resident team hold a strong Holmesburg A. A. team to a scoreless deadlock in a tilt which was mostly defensively played.

The resident team outscored the visiting eleven, six to four, and in the first half of the contest did not allow Bill Cody's boys a first down. It was in this half of the fray that the local Black and Maroon made the only threat of either team to score.

The localites received a break when Holmesburg fumbled on their twenty-five yard line and after the mass of players was untangled it was found that "Flo" Flatch had the pigskin tucked under his chest. After two line plays failed, a pass was attempted and when Lake was interfered with, Referee David counted the pass completed, giving Bristol a first down on the ten yard line. O'Neill hit the line for four yards and followed with two more on an off-tackle play. Dougherty was dropped for a slight loss on an attempted end run and Rogers barely missed a first down on another end run, giving the oval to the invaders.

"Flo" Flatch again thrilled the crowd before the whistle blew ending the first half when he leaped into the air to grab a pass thrown by Dougherty and eluded three would-be tacklers and having an open field for a touchdown only to be thrown out of bounds by the safety man.

Holmesburg never seriously threatened the Bristol goal line but made their best effort at the start of the second half. After a good run-back by Parris, the visiting team caught Bristol off-balance on the first play and completed a pass with Kelly on the receiving end which netted twenty-five yards. Bornice made six yards on an off-tackle play and Garnish added five more for a first down. A pass added seven more and then the localites braced and held for downs.

"Gige" Dougherty thrilled the local fans in the latter part of the third session when he carried the pigskin on a reverse by Joe Roe and netted a total of thirty-two yards before he was downed. Rogers also broke loose at the start of the fourth period but was downed after stepping off nine yards. For Holmesburg, Brennan made eleven yards through the center of the line.

Both clubs appeared sluggish as it was their opening game and both showed the lack of practice. The Bristol team will play the Roebing Blue Centers next Sunday on Landreth's field.

Tables were turned from the usual conventional type of testimony to one of the most vitriolic appraisal. "He's no good," said Kay.

was described as being fair when he left run alone, but no good when he drinks. He was sentenced by Judge Boyer to pay the costs of prosecution and serve not less than 30 days nor more than one year in the County Prison.

The 38-year-old garbage collector confessed to beating up Stephen Lutz with a steel curtain rod following a drinking bout September 8, when he was so drunk he didn't know what he was doing.

Kay, who formerly employed the defendant, told the Court he has fired him and that at the present time he is attempting to oust him from one of his houses.

Mickey Maccari and Charles Verrillo, of Philadelphia, charged with involuntary manslaughter, changed their plea to guilty and were sentenced by Judge Keller to pay a fine of $50 and costs. The case had been on trial for a day, during which time the Commonwealth produced testimony to show that Maccari's automobile struck and killed Doris Thomas, of Philadelphia, last Memorial Day, on the Bustleton Pike. Verrillo was driving another car, and it was testified by Commonwealth witnesses that both drivers had been racing previous to the accident.

Mrs. Helen Berkowitz, 35, of Philadelphia, a former resident of Croydon, was directed to pay the costs by a jury who found her to be the prosecutrix of Thomas Myers, Croydon, charged with assault and battery with intent to ravish. The jury acquitted Myers and placed the costs on Mrs. Berkowitz.

The Commonwealth witnesses testified that Mrs. Berkowitz and Myers met in a tap room at Croydon on the morning of August 29. Myers said that they both had been drinking a lot of beer, but denied improper behavior.

While J. Leslie Kilcoyne, of Bristol, attorney for Myers, was addressing the jury, Mrs. Berkowitz fainted and had to be carried to the Court House corridor.

71st Wedding Anniversary Marked By Uhlertown Folks

UHLERTOWN, Sept. 28—An affair of unusual interest was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sigafos, when they entertained at a family party in honor of the 71st wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Sigafos, September 25th.

Mr. Sigafos is 92 years of age, and his wife, Margaret Ruth Sigafos, is 90. Both are enjoying perfect health, and secure much enjoyment from the radio.

For 50 years Mr. Sigafos served as postmaster of the rural community of Uhlertown, and retired only a few years ago. Born and married in the community across the river from Frenchtown, Mr. Sigafos in his entire 92 years has spent only one night away from the town, and that was a number of years ago while serving on a jury in the Bucks County Court; he was locked in the court house on a panel one night.

Of nine children five are living, and they include: Harry Sigafos, Uhlertown, with whom the couple make their home; Bartus Sigafos, Phillipsburg, N. J.; Frank Sigafos, Yardley; Mrs. Bessie Hagar, Erwinna, and Mrs. Jennie McCarty, Uhlertown.

At the dinner covers were laid for 50, which included children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren.

Celebrate Operation Of Plant Without Accidents

More than 300 employees of Rohm & Haas Chemical Company enjoyed a picnic and sports program at their club house on Saturday afternoon, in celebration of their fine record in having operated the Bristol plant for 424 days without a lost-time accident.

H. W. Thompson, chairman of the safety committee, in speaking of the workers' achievements in eliminating accidents, said: "I am proud of the record set by you. Only two other plants in the entire State had a record that could compare with the Bristol firm." Mr. Thompson urged everyone employed by Rohm & Haas to be alert, avoid accidents and make this plant the safest in Pennsylvania.

E. C. Spring, of Philadelphia, an expert in safety, appealed to those present to be careful while on the highways and stressed the importance of a level head while operating an automobile. "The many accidents that occur today on the roads of our State and all over the country could be avoided by being careful."

S. C. Kelton, secretary of Rohm & Haas; and George Parker, from the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association safety department, also addressed the audience.

A fine program was furnished by William Horman, famous gymnast of Philadelphia, consisting of sensational tumbling acts, club swinging, contortionistic acrobatics by Betty Vincent.

Leonard Ross, American bag punching champion, gave a fine exhibition. There was also a sensational skating act by the "Three Airways," juggling by Lou Hoffman, and tap dancing by Lou Straus.

Comedy was injected into the program by Ko-Ko the clown, followed by a fencing contest and three clever wrestling bouts. Dinner was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church choir and prepared by Charles I. Bowen.

Big Air Thriller, "China Clipper," is Booked Here

"China Clipper," the new First National production which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Grand Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, is a glamorous romance of the air, marking a milestone in the pictorial history of daring aviation.

There is an exceptionally talented cast which includes Pat O'Brien, Beverly Roberts, Ross Alexander, Humphrey Bogart, Marie Wilson and Henry B. Walthall in the principal roles.

The picture treats of the daring long distance flights of the pioneers of aviation, men who gambled with death to drive their ships through storm and fog to make regular air service possible.

ODD FELLOWS WIN CROWN IN LOCAL TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Nose Out Hibernians in Final Game of Championship Series

FINAL SCORE IS 3 TO 2

The Odd Fellows were crowned the champions of the Bristol Twilight League when they nosed out the Hibernians, 3-2, Saturday afternoon on Landreth's field before a very small crowd.

It was the arm and bat of Jake Praul which gave the Oddies the triumph. Jake allowed but seven hits, fanned ten and tripled to start the rally in the final frame which netted the winning runs. For eight frames, Praul blanked the Hibos.

On the mound for the losers was Eddie Sullivan. Sullivan also was nipped for seven hits and shut out the Radcliffe street clan for six cautes. He allowed a run in the seventh and then was nipped for two more in the final inning.

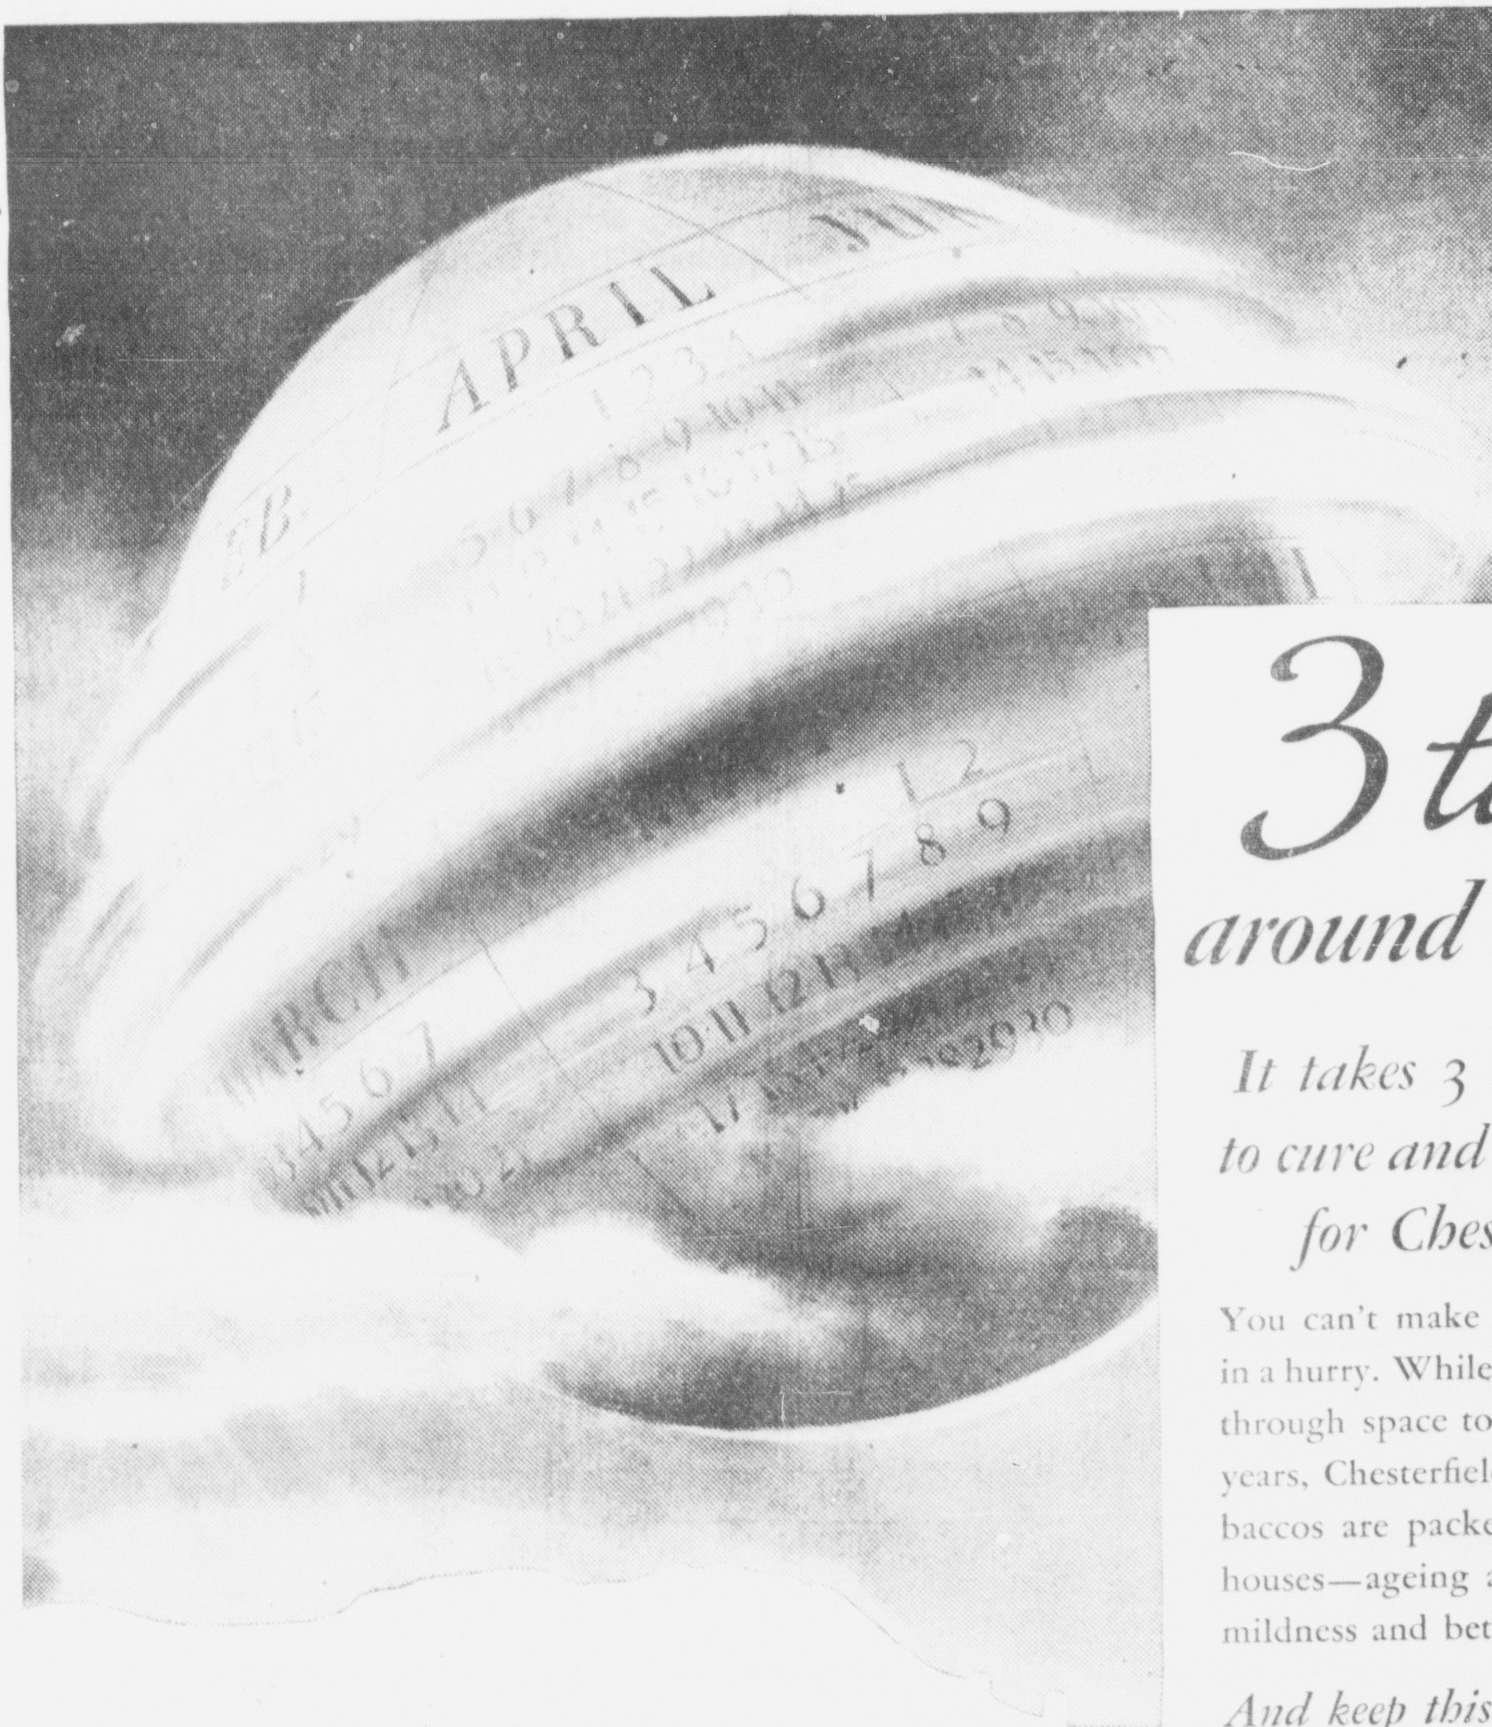

The first run off Sullivan was scored when Bilger walked, stole second, was sacrificed to third, and counted on Pfaffenrath's single to left. In the ninth, Praul tripled to right and scored when Ennis dropped a fly from the bat of Davis. Ennis also missed Ritter's fly but recovered the pill in time to get David at second. George Ritter tripled to score Bill Ritter with what proved to be the winning marker. Ritter was out trying to steal home.

After receiving goose-eggs for eight frames, the Hibos woke up in the ninth and counted a pair of runs. Cooper erred on Joe Roe's bouncer. Snyder was thrown out, Cooper to Hibbs. Clay singled, counting Roe. Clay stole second and scored when Thompson's roller was bobbled by Pfaffenrath. Zeffries and Eastlack could not advance Thompson.

It takes 3 long years to cure and age tobacco
for Chesterfields

You can't make a good cigarette in a hurry. While the world whirls through space to measure off the years, Chesterfield's mild, ripe tobaccos are packed away in warehouses—ageing and maturing for mildness and better taste.

And keep this in mind...

It's a long slow process, this mellowing of cigarette tobacco, but it's the only way yet discovered to produce a milder better-tasting cigarette.
